GRANITE CITY — A man shot to death Wednesday night was identified by authorities Thursday.
Richard A. Chot, 23, of 807 Iowa St., Madison, was identified about 9 p.m. Thursday by family members and fingerprints, said Police Chief Bill Harris. An obituary appears on

Mr. Chot was shot in the face shortly after 9 p.m. Wednesday following what may have been a burglary and kidnapping attempt at the home of Ricky Roberts, 2120 Ohio Ave. Mr. Chot died at 10 p.m. at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.
The investigation into the shooting, Harris said, will focus on Mr. Chot's friends and associates.

Dog saves policeman

By Valerie Evenden

"I thought he'd shot my dog," Patrolman Dan McKinney said Wednesday.
Diablo, the Venice Police Department's spirited K-9 dog, was not shot. But just the thought, even 48 hours later, obviously was more upsetting to McKinney than if a bullet had struck the officer himself.
Diablo was the reason McKinney came out of a life-threatening situation unscathed. "There's no doubt about it; he bought me the time," McKinney said.
The German Shepherd was hanging onto a man's arm when the man raised a handgun and allegedly fired a shot in McKinney's direction Monday night.
Kevin Clay Garrett, 29, of 1321 Oriole St., Venice, was charged March 11 with two counts of attempted murder and one count of unlawful use of a firearm by a felon.
Authorities alleged he tried to shoot McKinney and a Madison policeman, Richard Bailey, while fleeing from the scene of a disturbance in Madison Monday night.
Madison Patrolmen Bailey and Curtis Bradley were pursuing Garrett from a disturbance at the Grenzer Homes. Two shots were fired at the fleeing man, who was reported to be armed.
McKinney and Diablo were asked to assist when the man disappeared in the area of Market Street and Collinsville Avenue, where a number of railroad

The Venice patrolman and his dog began searching behind McKinney's and Madison's Madison policeman, Richard Bailey, while fleeing from the scene of a disturbance in Madison Monday night.
McKinney said McKinney then sent his "partner" into action.
"I know if it hadn't been for the dog, it would have been me," McKinney said.
It was Diablo's first "hit" in a real-life situation. Before, it was only practice.
"He did exactly what he's supposed to do," McKinney said.

Sale of Dunbar and removal of the former Madison Junior High were favored by Frank Eaves, Billie Bosworth, Ed Dohal, Don Garrett and President John Hamm.

By Bill Milligan

DALLAS — Local officials held what was called a productive meeting with Swift Independent Co. officials Friday.
The meeting resulted in a plan for a second one between local officials and Swift to rekindle the firm's interest in reopening at National City.
Prior to the meeting, Swift spokesman Bob Alexander said there was "no way the company would reopening the plant."
A spokesman for St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello said Friday afternoon that Costello had contacted him from Dallas and said the meeting went well.
"They met for 1½ hours," said

Terry Beach, Costello's administrative assistant. "We think the talks were productive. They will hold further talks in Dallas in two weeks."
Swift announced plans to reopen the National City facility last October.
St. Clair County's intergovernmental grants department attempted to lure the plant to National City with a $5 million tax incentive package.
When the plan was accepted Swift announced it would spend as much as $4 million renovating the plant and another $1 million on a facility to pre-treat sewage at the facility.
The plant could bring 400 jobs to

Company asks port to fund tanks

By Dave Gosnell
Staff writer
GRANITE CITY — The Tri-County Regional Port District is being asked to use its bonding power to finance the building of two new storage tanks at the port.
Port District Director Bob Wydra said Granite City Grain Company, which began operating at the port in September, wants the district to add $400,000 to a $2.5 million bond issue the district is planning later this year.
Wydra told Port District board members on Tuesday the company wants to build the tanks at its loading facility at the port's west end, but cannot afford to finance the project.
Granite City Grain would immediately begin construction if the district guaranteed that it would later buy the tanks, Wydra said.

"I think it's something we need to do," he said. "We need more information. We've got to make sure we can sell another $400,000 in bonds," said Wydra.
Board member Kent Holsinger, Granite City, expressed concern about the extra debt.
"That bond issue keeps getting larger and larger," Holsinger said.
Other board members asked Wydra if the company was doing well enough to guarantee that the port would receive future revenues in order to pay for the extra financing.
Wydra said he could not guarantee the future business of

Puryear named postmaster

Judith V. Puryear, of Granite City, previously the distribution window clerk at the Fairview Heights Post Office, has been named postmaster at Maryville, Ill. The appointment was announced by John C. Goodman, Field Division general manager/postmaster of the St. Louis Division.

In 1974, Puryear joined the Postal Service as a distribution clerk at the Fairview Heights Post Office. She worked as a window clerk at East St. Louis from 1978 until 1985, when she transferred to Fairview Heights.

She also served as officer-in-charge at the Lenzburg, Ill., post office in 1984.

Puryear, a graduate of Granite City High School, is a part-time student in management at Belleville Area College and has taken courses at SIUE. She is a member of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States (NAPUS) and is a member and finance chairman of the Gateway Chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Organization of Granite City.

She is married to Walt Puryear and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Campbell of Madison.

"I'm going to work very hard to provide the best possible service for the Maryville community," Puryear said. She was sworn in as postmaster at the Maryville Post Office on Jan. 30.

Boundary idea could have merit

State Rep. Wyvetter Younge, East St. Louis Democrat, is criticized sometimes for introducing legislation without detailed research and without adequate General Assembly support. These points apply to her latest bill, proposed new Metro East Sanitary District boundaries, but we would like to say a few kind words about her and her idea. She had the courage to bring the issue to the public's attention, and it has considerable merit.

There are predictions the bill has no chance to be enacted this year, and perhaps it shouldn't be until there has been more study and more effort to attract broader backing. But it is a fact that MESD is expected to provide more services than its resources permit; more territory would generate more money.

We used to tell a friend of ours in Collinsville, "That's easy for you to say." He often said the sanitary district ought to do this or that, but it was easy for him because he didn't have to pay real estate taxes to MESD; that "joy" is shared by Quad-City Area and East St. Louis property owners.

The assumption for many years has been that we in the American Bottoms ought to pay for levees to keep Old Man River away from our doors and also should pay for channeling and pumping the stormwater that descends on us. But water from a wide region — including bluff-area communities and a lot of wide open spaces in between — adds to the task and the cost while our friends in Collinsville and elsewhere can ignore lowlands problems and deal with loftier matters.

MESD pump and gate difficulties resulted in extensive flooding in East St. Louis last year, spotlighting 1985, and the topic, but even that occurrence hasn't persuaded non-MESD residents to volunteer to help shoulder the financial burden. That isn't really a surprise, nor is it surprising that Rep. Monroe Flinn, D-Cahokia, and Rep. Ron Stephens, R-Caseyville, haven't climbed atop the bigger-boundary bandwagon. A new property tax for their areas would be viewed as utterly unappealing.

Uncle Sam, despite his $2 trillion debt, is regarded by many as having deeper pockets than hard-pressed East St. Louisans and Quad Citizens. But even the Army Corps of Engineers has had to give up its plan for completing a massive hillside-drainage project in Madison and St. Clair counties due to the fierce nationwide competition for such funding.

Come to think of it, the Corps has been one of the most vocal in telling MESD that "you should do various costly things. To which we could respond, 'That's easy for you to say.'"

Burton, Elijah and Mary

Every column must have a topic, and today, I have three: Burton Bernard, the late Elijah Lovejoy and the late Mary Blackburn.

My first recollections of them date back to when I was a young student at Granite City High School. Burton spoke to me at an all-school assembly after earning first place in national oratory competition as one of Miss Blackburn's outstanding students.

Public speaking was not my best subject in those days; I concentrated on journalism rather than speech. But Burton, who picked up a bit of speaking experience in the Granite City Toastmasters Club. But Burton was brilliant, even as a teenager, and Mary Blackburn was a genius at bringing out the full potential of such talented youngsters.

This fall and winter, Burton and I were in touch with each other twice. The first time, we were among those present on an excursion boat as he received the Elijah Lovejoy Society's annual Human Rights Award.

An even more distinguished speaker as a veteran attorney, Burton was honored for his devotion to the preservation of historic traditions in this bi-state metropolitan area, among them the legacy of Elijah Lovejoy, the first martyr to press freedom in our nation's history.

Burton also was praised for his "commitment to the principles of truth and justice in the practice of law and his life's vision of freedom and justice for all men and women."

We went up the Mississippi River past the Venice bridges and the Tri-Cities Fort and Alton, where the murdered editor's presses had been thrown into the water by pro-slavery mobs in the 1830s.

It was the 150th anniversary. As one of several journalists on board, I was privileged to participate in a ceremony in which we poured a small quantity of printer's ink into the river. A wreath also was placed in the water in Lovejoy's memory.

It was a memorable occasion for me, due to the high honor accorded the Granite City attorney and the observance of a centennial and a half since the Alton editor gave up his life in the defense of freedom of speech and of the press.

The other recent contact with Burton Bernard relates to his active role in establishing a local scholarship fund in Mary Blackburn's memory. She was born the same year Granite City was born. She died at the age of 88 on Dec. 12, 1984, and many may recall that was Burton who gave the principal talk at a memorial service for her that week.

As he said, "We appreciate her pre-eminence in the art of public speaking and drama. We are grateful for her having trained and guided students and adults for more than a half-century."

"However, there was more than this talent and this role. She introduced us to subject matter which reflected her character and subtly encouraged us to consider her values: loyalty, competitiveness, industry, service, courage, idealism, romanticism, humanness, humility, respect for wisdom and beauty. She helped to make us sensitive to matters of public concern."

"How fortunate for the people of Granite City that Mary's teaching career began here in 1919. She and her colleagues initiated quality educational programs which better enabled students to fulfill themselves throughout their lives."

"Mary created and developed the speech department, her basic course, started with eight students, was rich in its diversity and, in time, was required for all students. Her advanced speech classes also became part of the curriculum.

"She was named a Woman of Achievement in 1985, and the National Forensic League elected her to its Hall of Fame in 1982, only the end of life could suppress her vitality."

She will live on in our memories, and in the scholarship program. It is hoped to name the first recipient this year. Serious interest in oral communication is a requirement.

Gifts may be sent to: Granite City High School, 3101 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040. Attention: Mary Blackburn Fund. (First Granite City National Bank is the trustee for the fund.)

Those at the meeting where the trust program was established included: Van Dee Cruse, GCHS Principal; Ken Spalding, GCHS Speech Department Head; Ron Pennell, Phil Drexler, Randall Robertson, Chris Kacaleff, Richard King, Tom E. Holloway and representatives of the Board of Education, plus Dorothy McCauley, widow of former GCHS Principal Lawrence McCauley.

There is no way to fully characterize Mary Blackburn in a few words, but the best for life may have been partly explained by the words of a 19th century American, actress, Charles Cushman. The quotation was displayed in the Blackburn home:

"Love and reverence all arts equally, only putting my own just above the others; because in I recognize the union and culmination of my own life."

It seems as if when God conceived the world, that was poetry; he armed it, and that was sculpture; he adorned it, and that was painting; he peopled it with living beings, and that was the grand, divine, eternal drama."

and rushed him to the medical center. The photo showed his face covered with an oxygen mask as the emergency crew did its work. Showing them at work included the unfortunate reality of a partial view of the man's condition.

Partial view... Some of the nine photos did not include the mask. The impact of the man's injury is conveyed in those photos and for that reason they were not used.

Editors elsewhere have the same tough decisions to make when dealing with borderline photos. For example, newspapers had to decide if they would or wouldn't use photos of R. Budd Dwyer, the Pennsylvania state treasurer who killed himself.

The Associated Press sent out photos of Dwyer's body, putting it in his mouth and pulling the trigger.

Some editors used those photos, others didn't. Each newspaper had to make its own decision.

A prominent local official did the same thing, the choice of how to photographically handle it would be tough. If such photos were used, it would outrage some while others would surely feel we were soft-selling the news by not printing the photos.

Each circumstance has to be handled individually. We believe we made the right decision Thursday. We won't challenge any second-guessers.

Let's all make area more attractive

President John F. Kennedy told us to "ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

Perhaps this phrase has been overused but it still applies in many instances. For example, our community could apply it when confronting deteriorating community pride.

Perhaps we, as well as our governing bodies, can make the difference in improving our Tri-Cities community and together we can turn this area's economy around.

There are presently a number of community people working with the area's economic development. There are even more of the Tri-City citizenry involved with the Chamber of Commerce's efforts to bring new businesses and employment to this area.

These people are all volunteers with the Chamber of Commerce's efforts to bring new businesses and employment to this area.

What do potential businesses see when they get here? That becomes the problem. It is not entirely the present city government's problem, but our problem as well.

The cities and townships are working hard to undo some of the decay that has evolved over the years.

But large projects take time and perhaps we don't have all that much time to sit back and wait for the improvements to be made.

What are we, the private citizens, doing about these conditions? We're complaining a lot. We're complaining that the cities and townships are dirty and that something should be done. But by whom?

It's easy to pick up the telephone and call our aldermen. Our capacity is then clear; we've done all we can.

But what have you done? Have you thought about what you and your neighbors could do? Maybe cut the unsightly weeds by the sidewalk or plant grass, a tree or a flower? Maybe your organization or union could undertake a project.

Why should the city be the only organizer of a house-painting project for the handicapped and for low-income families?

Why should the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts be the only groups seen once a year picking up trash? Wouldn't it be nice to see an adult volunteer group out on a regular basis? It will take all of us, the retired citizen, the church member, the property owner, the renter, the merchant, the union member and industry to become interested participants.

Together we could make the difference in a business locating here or taking its jobs to another area where the grass is indeed greener.

Our area's development is not just a volunteer job for a few, but for all of us.

The week of April 25 to May 1 has been designated as the Tri-Cities Area Clean-up week.

The event is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce's Community Betterment Committee and we are asking each and everyone to help make the difference, then and throughout the year.

Eliminate half of nuclear warheads

To the editor:
Sometimes we miss the obvious.

It is true of government officials, of journalists, of all of us. We get so involved in day-to-day details that we lose sight of the big picture.

Public officials and journalists have a special opportunity and obligation to look at the big picture.

Neither profession is always appreciative, and sometimes for good reason.

But now and then someone breaks through to make a real contribution. Columnist James Kilpatrick has done that. Regarded as a spokesman for conservative causes, he told us what should be obvious:

"What would happen, if the President tomorrow should announce that without waiting upon a formal agreement with the U.S.S.R., he was scrapping half of our nuclear weapons, 5,600 of our (strategic nuclear) warheads? No strings attached. No conditions. No ifs, ands or buts. That the world would be publicly defused and destroyed. The whole world would be in a state of confusion."

"With the whole world watching, Gorbachev would be virtually compelled to take similar unilateral action." In January 1986, Gorbachev suggested a specific figure: 6,000 warheads for each nation. In the name of simple common sense, wouldn't such levels suffice?

Both the U.S. and the Soviet Union have accumulated strategic arsenals that are absurd, grotesque, ludicrous and unnecessary by any rational concept of national security.

"By cutting our strategic arsenal in half, the U.S. would retain nuclear weapons with a destructive capacity roughly equal to 1.7 billion tons of TNT. That is enough to reduce the Soviet Union to a nuclear wasteland uninhabitable for the next 100 years. And, of course with a roughly equivalent arsenal, the Soviet Union would retain the capacity to do the same thing to the U.S."

The trouble is that both sides have become so obsessed with arms control that they have lost sight of straightforward arms reduction.

Wow! I have read his column three times now. If there is a flaw in his thinking, I have not found it.

It would greatly reduce the risk of nuclear war. It would save billions of dollars over a number of years. For the first time in recent years, it would put the U.S. on the offensive for peace. Our image around the world is not good.

The missile manufacturers and others will attack the Kilpatrick column. But reflecting in his Virginia home, he has come up with a suggestion that ought to be examined seriously.

Since we can verify nuclear warheads without difficulty, what we do and what the Soviets do are known by everyone. Even if they do not go along, and world opinion would make that difficult, we still have far more than enough warheads to destroy the Earth.

We would still have the equivalent of half a ton of TNT per person on Earth in nuclear warheads. That's plenty.

The other day I read that British writer Anthony Burgess was cleaning out latrines during World War II when an officer came through and asked him what he had done in civilian life. "I was a writer," Burgess told him. The officer responded, "At least now you're doing something useful."

There are times when public opinion is asking each and everyone if they are doing anything useful.

James Kilpatrick has done something useful and significant by pointing out the obvious.

U.S. SEN. PAUL SIMON

Willing to pay for needed services

To the editor:
I am writing in response to the recent question posed regarding the telephone tax. I went to the polls and voted no, believing that no tax is a good tax.

After talking with my alderman, Tom Hewlett, I learned he also had voted no at the polling place but voted yes at the City Council meeting.

He explained we would be losing revenue sharing in the amount of almost $500,000; with the telephone tax which amounts to approximately $300,000, we would have lost almost $800,000, or about one-fifth of our city's entire budget.

If this happened, we would either have to do away with some services or pass some other type of tax. Considering the entire matter, I admire my alderman for taking the unpopular stand that he took, especially knowing that many people would never know his reasoning and he would be faced with this issue in the forthcoming election.

No one wants to pay more tax es than they have to, but if we want our city to progress — and to enjoy the excellent services that we now receive from our Police Department, Fire Department, Street Department and Ambulance Service — we must be willing to pay for them.

I believe Granite City is at a turning point, and quite frankly, I think that "things are looking up." I appreciate the position that my alderman took.

Cub marks St. Patrick's Day

The Five Star Club of Central Bank used the St. Patrick's Day theme for its March meeting. Green balloons and shamrocks with white placemats provided the setting for a sing-along of favorite Irish melodies, including "My Wild Irish Rose," "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover" and "That's an Irish Lullaby."

Delores Boston and Roul Bell, accompanied by Ruby Cook at the piano, provided a special program of hymns.

Guests were Thelma Jacob-smeyer, Jackie Willardet and Dorothy Reyes. Retired bank employees joining in the festivities were Clara Parker, Bill Evans and Ed Norton.

The group sang "Happy Birthday" to members Frances Gal-lauer, Eva Six, Elizabeth Novacich, Wilma Cooper, Charlotte

Tuba

High school concert will feature tuba man

At 17, Livingston heard a radio broadcast of The Band of America featuring William J. Bell as the tuba soloist for that broadcast. During the winter holiday vacation of 1953, he hitchhiked 800 miles to New York City with his tuba to play for the legendary teacher and soloist.

Through Bell, Livingston was introduced to some of the great conductors and ensembles of the world. As he continued his study with Bell, he was also pursuing his music degrees at the University of Michigan and Western Michigan University on a music scholarship. He graduated with musical honors while earning bachelor and master degrees in music education and performance.

Livingston became a member and tuba soloist with The United States Army Band of Washington, D.C., distinguishing himself as a performer on tours throughout the U.S., Canada, Mexico and Europe. His popularity and international reputation began to grow.

After his discharge from service, Livingston accepted a teaching position at Western Michigan and did extensive freelance work with traveling Broadway shows, recordings, the Ringling Brothers Circus Band, and symphony orchestras throughout the Midwest.

In 1965, he was the only brass performer selected from the U.S. to represent America as a Fulbright Scholarship winner to The Royal College of Music in London.

Livingston was selected to perform for the Queen of England in a special award recital. During doctoral research study in brass instrument design and tuba performance, he continued to perform with leading bands and orchestras in Europe.

His tuba design features are still evident in many European instrument manufacturing companies.

Dog

posed to do," the officer said. "I took him home (afterward) and cooked him a steak. He knows that he did right."

When Garrett allegedly raised the weapon a second time, McKinney fired his revolver and shot Garrett in the left thigh. The impact knocked the man over.

Garrett was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated. He was released to Madison police and later was transferred to the Madison County jail in Edwardsville. Bond was set at $400,000.

"It all happened in a split second. The man turned around and he brought up his right hand pointing a handgun at me. I sent Diablo at him and the dog jumped on his arm, pulling it down."

"The man fired the gun as the arm was going down but he pulled up his arm again. I knew I wasn't hit, but I thought he'd killed my dog. When he raised up his arm again, I just cleared leather and shot at him."

"I'm just lucky. He had another round left," McKinney said. After being pulled off Garrett, Diablo stood there shaking his head; apparently the gunshot had deafened the animal and he "went to ground" (moved away from the suspect), the Venice officer said.

Several truck drivers came out of the cafe, apparently having heard the shots. "I yelled at them, but when they saw the dog, they disappeared," he said.

To make sure Diablo was not affected by the incident, McKinney took his partner the next day through some routines at the St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department's Canine Training School.

McKinney and the 17-month-old German Shepherd graduated from there last December. The instructor was very pleased with the dog's response and his development. He's pretty young, but I knew when I left there with him in December he was good," McKinney said.

McKinney can't speak highly enough of the training facility. "They've trained dogs there that can do anything...dogs that can find drugs or bombs or even money. They can find or spot anything."

McKinney believed from the start that Diablo's finest quality is handler protection. The rookie canine is good at tracking, searching and many other areas in which a police dog must be proficient, but his foremost desire is to protect McKinney.

"He saved me Monday night, there's no doubt in my mind," the patrolman said.

Swift

Swift backed out of the agreement in February after a disagreement with local union leaders and officials about who would work at the plant.

"We think we have the right to hire who we want," said Alexander. "It was suggested we use local labor. Some of the tradesmen that were suggested were inappropriate for a packing plant operation."

Alexander said late Friday he could not attend all the meeting with Costello because one of the firm's Texas plants had a strike.

Also at issue, according to the union, is the hourly wage offered to employees at the plant.

In February 1985, the company closed the plant after an 11-month strike.

Workers earned $11.25 per hour at the plant before it closed. Swift proposes paying employees at the reopened plant $5.50 per hour or less.

p.m., the Rev. Robert L. Bailey, pastor of Shiloh AME Church, East St. Louis; Friday, 7:30 p.m., the Rev. John L. Smith, pastor of Bethlehem M.B. Church, East St. Louis; and Sunday, March 15, at 3:30 p.m., the Rev. C. Stanley Jones, pastor of True-Light Baptist Church, St. Louis.

The public is invited to attend.

MESD

MESD measure gets good, bad reactions

bill like that comes up ... somebody there says 'What? Are they nuts?'" Greathouse said. "How many people in our community would agree to pay more taxes for us?"

More money for the district is desperately needed for pump repairs and for daily operation, said Greathouse. He said attention given to MESD financial problems will help and Young's bill provides attention.

"I think we've got everybody's attention. If they don't give me money ... I don't want to be here when it (MESD) collapses," Greathouse said.

But Greathouse declined to support Young's efforts, citing past disagreements with Young about MESD and the Oct. 7 flood in East St. Louis.

"We don't see eye to eye," Greathouse said. "She's always been griping because I have this job."

Flinn, vice chairman of the committee where the bill sits, said he was opposed to Young's bill because it had little political support and because he thought the bill was badly written and too broad.

"If we just come out with a blank map of all of Southern Illinois, we would have too much opposition," Flinn said.

Like Wolf, Flinn said he would like to see research involving the Army Corps of Engineers on the idea of expanding MESD. He said he would like to check into taxing communities outside the district for using MESD services.

Stephens said he disagrees with Young's bluff and would help pay for drainage problems in the bottoms area.

"It just doesn't make any sense. Just because it rains in Maryville, people ought to pay for that water to drain away to East St. Louis, and then the ocean? Where do you stop?" Stephens said.

"It worries me. I will fight it in the house and the Senate," Stephens said of Young's bill. "The only reason they want to stretch these borders out is to create more money. I'm not sure that would solve the problem."

Better regional coordination with drainage problems is possible without including bluff communities in MESD's taxing district, Stephens said.

Stephens said he too is concerned with flooding and drainage problems in the bottoms area. The Collinsville resident owns Freedom Pharmacy in Granite City, but he prefers that the state bear the cost of MESD rather than tax residents in his district.

Stephens said he supported $750,000 in emergency funds the state recently provided MESD after the October flood.

MESD operates a system of canals and pumps in St. Clair and Madison counties. The district's eastern boundaries go as far as the bluffs but do not include them.

Many district residents pay property taxes to support MESD. MESD handles water that drains from areas as far as 50 miles away, Greathouse said.

Special meeting of Madison board set

A special open meeting of the Madison Board of Education will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the board office.

The main topic of discussion will be the proposed disposition of Dunbar School.

CHILD ABUSE takes many forms. Teaching parents and special education students about proper ways of preventing, identifying and reporting sexual abuse is the focus of a March 23 program at Coolidge Junior High School. Four different problem areas relating to sexual behavior and preventive measures will be discussed at simultaneous sessions.

Sexual abuse workshops for parents and children

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

Intimate or sexually suggestive touches are sometimes hard to detect and difficult for any youngster to explain.

Children and young adults who are mentally handicapped are especially vulnerable to such personal abuse and behavior, authorities say.

Four programs designed for the safety of all children, but appropriate for all children and parents in the Quad City Area, will be presented Monday, March 23, at Coolidge Junior High School.

Preventing, identifying and reporting incidents of sexual abuse is the objective of all four simultaneous programs, scheduled from 7 to 8:30 p.m. March 23.

The teaching workshops are primarily keyed to the needs and safety of mentally handicapped or emotionally distressed children and their families.

Although the focus will be on the special child and his family, any parent or child is welcome to participate, the sponsors said.

"We wouldn't turn anyone away if they want to attend," said Carolyn Smoot of the Parents for Special Education group, which has members from all four local municipalities.

The presentations are being sponsored by Parents for Special Education, Madison County Region I Special Education and Coordinated Youth Services.

Bus transportation to Coolidge will be available March 23, from four pickup points in the Quad City Area. The locations and departure times are:

Venice Recreation Center, 323 Broadway, Venice, 6 p.m.; OATH Workshop, 612 State St., Madison, 6:15 p.m.; Press-Record/Journal parking lot, 1815 Delmar Ave., 6:30 p.m.; and Kirkpatrick Homes Central Office, 6:45 p.m.

Patrolman Curt Walkenbach, crime prevention officer for the Granite City Police Department, and June Riden of the Child Sexual Abuse Prevention organization will instruct a program for children, ages 4 to 14, and special adults considered at risk of being sexually abused.

Walkenbach and Riden will offer tips on saying "no" to certain touches and actions and will explain how to tell someone they trust about such incidents.

The instructors also will show a videotape featuring the Fonz, geared to teaching children to be strong and safe.

Young adults, 14 and over, will learn prevention of sexual abuse and of pregnancy; the prevention of sexually transmitted diseases; and the responsibilities of marriage, in a second program.

Recommended for young adults who may become sexually active and for special married couples, this program will be presented by the Illinois Caucus on Teenage Pregnancy.

Instructors from the same agency will lead the third segment, through which parents of young adults will discover how best to talk with their teenager about appropriate sexual behavior, the responsibilities involved in the prevention of sexually transmitted diseases, and pregnancy prevention.

Parents attending the fourth program will learn how to teach their children techniques to prevent sexual abuse.

How a parent can recognize signs of such abuse and the best method of reporting suspected cases also will be explained by Renee Bauer of the Council of Family Services and the Visiting Nurses Association.

"We hope all parents of special children and of special young adults will come to the program," Smoot said.

Young people and children can attend one session while a parent is participating in another segment, she said.

The dinner meeting at Sunset Hills Country Club at 5:30 p.m. will recognize past presidents as well as outstanding members of the professional educator organization.

Chapter 1097 was formed to serve the educational needs of Metro East on March 10, 1962, shortly after the establishment of the Edwardsville campus of Southern Illinois University. It includes public school teachers, administrators and university personnel.

The two remaining active members who were instrumental in establishing the chapter are Dr. H. Bruce Brubaker, retired professor of education, Southern Illinois University, and A. Gordon Dodds, retired superintendent of Edwardsville Community

Youth choir being organized

Jack Jenkins of J&J Productions of Granite City and Carole Canady of Sunshine Unlimited, Christian Bookstore are announcing the formation of an Inter-City Interdenominational youth choir for the benefit of local youths.

March is an organizational month for the choir. A contemporary Christian musical, Hi Tops, is being cast and will be performed by the choir in June. Hi Tops deals with various struggles faced by today's young people.

Those interested in being part of this choir may contact Jenkins at 877-4848 or Canady at 797-0420. Youths may be a member of any church or of no church if they are interested in singing or drama. Auditions are being held for both singing and dramatic roles.

For organizational purposes, Third Baptist Church, 2601 Grand Ave., has opened its doors to the choir. Meetings are at the church each Saturday at 2 p.m. through the month of March.

The only expenditure for youths will be money for the purchase of the book, Hi Tops, and each person will need a pair of high-top tennis shoes for the musical.

The choir is for those age 12 to 21, a spokesman said.

Q. What is bursitis?

A. Bursitis is an inflammatory condition which affects a structure known as a bursa. Bursas are sack-like structures which are located over joints and bony prominences. Bursas are located over the knees, shoulders, hips and elbows. In their normal states, they resemble flattened sacks that serve to cushion an area that is often bumped or exposed to excessive movement. When hit repeatedly or exposed to exposed repetitive movements they can become inflamed and very painful. Patients often present with red swollen joints which are painful to the touch. Treatment usually involved protecting the area from further trauma, rest and moist heat. In more difficult cases, a mild anti-inflammatory medication is used such as aspirin or motrin like compounds.

Antique show at SIUE

There will be more dealers, items for sale and space than in past years at the 17th annual Antique Show and Sale, Saturday and Sunday, March 28-29, at SIUE.

"It will be our first time at the Vadalabene Center gymnasium, where we'll have room for about 40 dealers. We could handle 30 in the space we've had in the past in the University Center Ballroom," said Roland Bauer of Collinsville, president of Friends of Lovejoy Library.

The 400-member organization sponsors the sale yearly, raising about $8,000 of the $50,000 it contributes annually to acquisition and preservation needs of the library.

The event is planned by a committee of 20 from Friends of Lovejoy Library. About 60 volunteering members will be assisting in preparations, operations, and cleanup for the sale.

There's no preview opening this year "and it's always a stampede when the doors open," said Donna Bardon, coordinator of Lovejoy Library activities.

In addition to the dealer booths, the Friends again will have two booths for antique items and the other for old books.

"Among the books are some particularly good old regional atlases. They're always popular. The antiques are donated by Friends and there always are some unusual things," Bardon said.

The additional dealers will include specialists in old maps and prints, jewelry and lamps. There will be more space for furniture antiques, she said.

Among dealers who weren't in last year's show, but will be in this one, Bardon said, are Antique Prints & Maps, Clayton, Mo.; Amedee and Now & Then Antiques, both of St. Louis; Apple Pie Antiques, Steeleville; The Welcome Return, Alton; Cadwell's, Griggsville; Fleurissant Antiques, Florissant, Mo.; and Pierce's Lamps & Glass, Eureka, Mo.

Individual tickets are good for both days of the show. Prices are $2.50 for admission at the door during sale hours 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, March 28, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, March 29. Children under 13 are admitted without charge.

Advance tickets are $2 for the general public and $1.50 for SIUE students. They are available at MB & Annie's, 138 N. Main St., Edwardsville, or at SIUE at the Lovejoy Library Reference Desk and Union Station Ticket Office.

Red Devils rip Pear City, 81-33

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — The Pearl City Wolves hadn't lost a game all year. But when they finally did, they lost big.

The Venice Red Devils took charge near the end of the first quarter of Friday's Class A quarterfinal game at the Assembly Hall in route to a convincing 81-33 victory over Pearl City. The victory sent Venice into Saturday's semifinal against Chrisman, a 69-56 winner over Elgin St. Edward in Friday's first quarterfinal game.

DARELL BUIE of the Red Devils loses the ball as he spins towards the basket during Tuesday's Charleston Super-Sectional. Buiue did a good job rebounding as Venice advanced to the state tournament in Champaign this weekend.

Parade today for Red Devils

Venice will welcome the Red Devils with a parade at about 1:30 p.m. today.

Venice sponsored Pearl City 81-33 Friday afternoon at Champaign, gaining a semi-final berth Saturday against Chrisman.

Area residents are expected to join school and city officials at Illinois 205 and Bend Road, south of Madison, to escort players and fans into town.

Players will eat breakfast before returning, said School Superintendent Robert Vickers. Driving from Champaign is estimated at 3 1/2 to four hours. The exact arrival time at the parade at Bend Road was not available.

post-season games, dazzled the Assembly Hall crowd with 29 points, including a pair of slam dunks. Three other Red Devils joined Hall in double figures. Dale Turner had 14 points, and Daryl Jackson and Wilford Wigfall had 10 points apiece.

"We just did the things we were supposed to do," said Red Devil coach Clinton Harris. "We played good basketball. Today was probably the best game we played all year."

If the Red Devils had any fear about imposing presence of Pearl City's 6-10 center Mark Macomber they were quickly dispelled in the first half. Macomber scored only four points in the game and picked up three early fouls. He fouled out of the game early in the second quarter and was never a factor.

Pearl City was 30-0 coming into Friday's game and was ranked second in this week's Illinois Class A poll. The Red Devils are the state's new No. 1 team since Friday's loss. St. Edward was beaten in the super-sectional Tuesday night. But if Friday's game was any indication, the difference between No. 1 and No. 2 was great.

Once the Devils got adjusted to the big gym, they outclassed the Wolves. Pearl City used the outside shooting of Mike Palmer to take an early 10-4 lead. The Wolves held a 17-16 lead after one quarter. But the Devils scored the first seven points of the second quarter and the party was over for the large contingent of red-clad Pearl City fans.

It was 28-23 Venice late in the second quarter until Wigfall made a steal and a layup, then followed with an 18 footer. Hall then came through with his first slam of the game on a pass from Turner, and Orlando Love's jump shot made it 36-23 at intermission.

"When we found out we could run against them, we really opened things up," Harris said.

But if the Wolves thought the first half was bad, they hadn't seen anything yet. Pearl City scored only 10 points in the second half, and in the process had made only 3-23 field goal attempts. They were shut out until more than half of the third quarter had been played. In that time, the Red Devils scored 12 points, 10 of them by Hall.

When Palmer finally hit a jump shot, with 3:37 left in the quarter, he unleashed 46-25 for the Devils. If anything, things just continued to get worse for the Wolves. They committed 31 turnovers as the Devils' quickness proved to be too much for them.

Turner led the way with six steals, while center Darell Buiue and Hall had four steals each. Turner also chipped in nine assists.

Venice outscored Pearl City 18-4 in the third quarter and 27-6 in the fourth quarter. Only a turnover by Love in the final 10 seconds prevented the Devils from having a chance for a 50 point margin of victory.

Hall finished things off with behind-the-back jam with three minutes left. "I was kind of waiting back for that one," Hall said. "I think we gave them more than they bargained for. They probably became a little overwhelmed in the second half."

For Hall, it was a return to normal after his foul-plagued games of the past two weeks. "Those were probably the best refs we have had in a long time," Hall said. "They let us play."

The Devils played Chrisman in the semifinals Saturday morning. The championship game was Saturday night at 8:30. The third-place game was played prior to the championship game.

Details of Saturday's action will appear in the Wednesday Journal.

Tigers win slowly, 38-32

By Carl Jacobs
Staff writer

Althoff slooooooowed down the pace in Friday's Class AA sectional championship game against Lincoln.

But Bennie Lewis and his Lincoln Tigers played at Althoff's speed, beating the Crusaders at the own game, 38-32.

Lincoln advances to the super sectional at Mount Vernon at Carbondale Tuesday.

Lewis coached a masterpiece, outdueling Althoff's Brad Harriman. Lewis held the reins on his quick team, letting them go at the right time to take the lead, then pulling them in again. Harriman, on the other hand, kept his team in the stall offense until he was down by 10 points, 10-points too late as he stalled out the game and any chance of a last quarter Althoff comeback.

Harriman defended his strategy.

"If we would have made our opportunities, we would have won the game, but we missed some key shots and they covered on the transition basket," Harriman said.

The Tigers, a run-and-gun team, were slowed by Collinsville in the first round of the Collinsville sectional Tuesday but won the game. Althoff met the same fate as Lincoln proved they are as adaptable as they are talented.

"We knew they were going to slow the game with a stall offense," Lewis said. "But we practiced for it and I told my kids to be patient on offense. It worked."

The Tigers played the waiting game until the middle of the second quarter when they increased the speed of the game, took the lead 18-12, then stalled to seal the victory.

"We were very patient before we took the lead and when we did get the advantage, I stressed to the players to hold on to the ball for the perfect shot," Lewis said.

Things weren't rosy for Lincoln early. They missed their first three shots and hit just three of 10 from the field in the first quarter.

"We had some easy 15-foot shots we should have made in the first quarter and that would have opened our inside game up," Lewis said.

Althoff held a 10-6 lead at the end of the first quarter. The Crusaders made four of their first five shots to break the ice. But Lincoln managed to stay close and took the lead when LaPhonso Ellis, who finished with 11 points, tipped in a rebound. Lincoln then started hitting the jumpers they were missing earlier and increased their lead to 19-14.

Curiously, Althoff stayed in their stall offense despite the five-point deficit. They held the ball for the last shot of the second quarter and though they made it, the basket left them down by six points, 25-19.

The Tigers then slowed down the game, accomplishing the feat better than Althoff. Leading 35-25 the Tigers kept control of the ball for the last two minutes as the Crusaders missed desperation shots.

"I don't understand why they stayed in their stalled offense until the game was almost over," Lewis said. "I expected them to come out and start shooting the ball quicker, being down by eight points."

The Crusaders fouled Chavis and he tried to oblige the Crusaders comeback cause by missing the free throw, but Althoff missed their ensuing shots.

"Our offense was only about 70 percent successful tonight," Harriman said. "We could have won the game at the free throw line but we didn't hit them."

Lewis was not happy with his team's free throw shooting, but he was satisfied with their defensive effort.

"We tried to let them back in the game by missing our free throws, but our defense came through. But if we shoot that way in the super sectional, we may be in trouble," Lewis said.

Four Granite City wrestlers qualify for IKWF state meet

Four local wrestlers, three from Grigsby Junior High School and one from Coolidge, qualified for the Illinois Kids Wrestling Federation state championships at held this weekend at SIU.

To qualify for the state meet, wrestlers had to finish in the top three places in their respective weight class in last week's districts. The meet was at Belleville Area College. It was only one of eight sections in Illinois containing 19 weight classes. In all, 456 wrestlers made the trip to the Vandalia Center.

Granite City wrestlers qualifying for the state tournament are Scott Wilson, Tom Moss, David Stout and Mark Cotten. Wilson, from Coolidge Junior High, finished second in the 95-pound weight class.

Grigsby Junior High sent three people to the meet. Moss, 22-3, finished second in the 135-pound weight class and Stout, 14-5, finished third in the same division.

Finishing fourth in the district meet makes an athlete eligible as an alternate wrestler. If one of the top three finishers in a weight class withdraws from the competition or is hurt, then the alternate wrestler participates in the state championship.

Matt Cotten finished fourth in the 85-pound division and David Cotten is a possible alternate as he finished fourth in the 275 weight class. Junior wrestlers, 8-10 years old, do not wrestle in the state tournament, so last weekend's district meet was their final. Top Granite City junior finishers were James Lamb, who finished third in 85 pounds, and Jason Roseman, who finished second at 120 pounds.

Tigers

"I have to compliment our defense though. They were patient and did not get in foul trouble by committing stupid fouls."

Lewis expects to see stall offenses by his opponents through the rest of the playoffs. "There is no way around it," Lewis said. "We will just have to continue to be patient and work for the good shot."

The Lincoln Tigers look tough. If an unfamiliar team tries to run with them, the opponent will be looking to spring's track season. If they show the pace down, the Tigers can put it in neutral and be as patient as any team. Combine that with a 6-9 center, LaFronzo Ellis, and two 6-7 forwards, James Harris and Chris Rodgers, and you have a dream team.
